

Are you traveling abroad and would you like to support the environment while helping to bring education to children? Then pick-up a laptop and bring it to children and schools all over the world.

- Labdoo.org collects unused laptops, deletes all former data and installs educational software in local languages. These laptops are donated for free to children and schools all over the world.
- Are you traveling to a place near a Labdoo project? Ask for a free laptop and take it in your baggage. Bring children access to IT and education while avoiding damaging the environment.
- Got an unused laptop? Send or bring it to a Labdoo hub and donate it to one of the Labdoo projects.
- If you know schools, orphanages or projects which need laptops, request laptops for them from project Labdoo.

Building laboratories for education one at a time

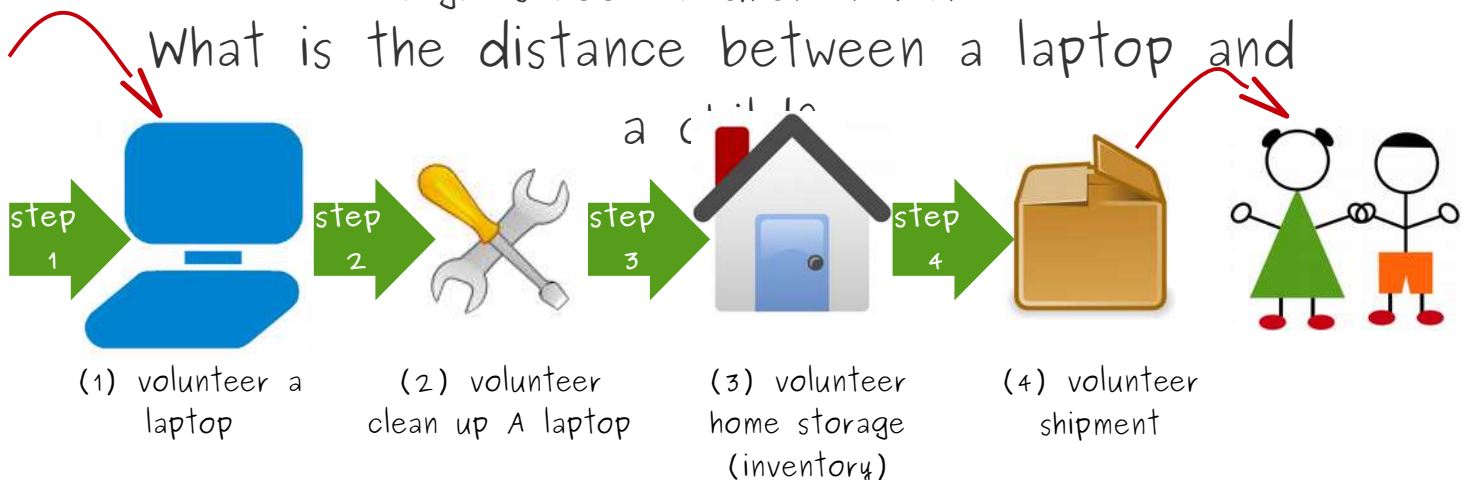

Everybody can support Labdoo.org:

- Promote and spread the project mission.
- Donate old, unused laptops from households or companies.
- Help to sanitize laptops and to install ubuntu and educational software.
- Bring laptops to schools and projects all over the world.
- Become member of a local hub or set-up a hub on your own in your home town.

Every year more than 100 million laptops are obsoleted and replaced by new ones, enough to cover all the high-school children in Africa
